A black mobile phone is shown in its original packaging. The phone is positioned vertically in a black, molded plastic tray. The phone's screen is illuminated with a green light. The Amstrad logo is visible on the front of the phone. The phone is surrounded by a black, textured material that forms the inner lining of the box. The box is open, with the lid visible at the top. The lid is white with a black border and contains a small black label with white text. The entire box is placed on a light-colored, textured surface.
