Who ya gonna call?

The Ghostbusters are back! After saving the population in the original Ghostbusters film, the ectoplasmic crew are sued by the city, and reduced to holding children's parties and working in book stores. All ghostly phenomena has ceased, and the people deny the existence of things that go bump in the night. All is not well, however. Once again, strange things begin to stir. Unexplainable events occur, and the scene is set for a sixteenth century warlock to return, his soul residing in a painting in the museum. A new reign of evil looks certain. The city will be crushed. The warlock will return. Who can save the day? Looks like its time to call - the Ghostbusters!

This astounding game is the sequel to the bestselling computer game of all time! Now Activision has gone on to produce a game that even outdoes the original! Using five distinct sequences from the film, the game closely follows the plot and sheer excitement of the record-breaking film!

WIN £25 !! BRAIN TEASER

This month's little brain teaser comes from Mr Ward of Crawley, who will be receiving a £10 credit voucher for his troubles. The rules of this square are quite simple. The numbers at the right side and at the bottom represent the totals of the rows and columns respectively. Your task is a simple one. Find the values given to each of the letters, A to E, to obtain these totals. Then, as a final problem, calculate the value which should replace the question mark. Good luck, and remember: Entries before 10th December.

Mr Stephens from Cheltenham writes:

I have a CPC464, and am considering the purchase of a Protex ROM. Firstly I would like to know if it will work with my machine. Secondly, I am curious as to whether it is possible to save my documents to tape. If not, what option would be available to me?

Ed. Replies:

As to your first query, Protex ROM will work with the CPC464 machine. Unfortunately it is not possible to save to tape. All is not lost however. To overcome this storage problem requires a little extra expenditure, but I am sure you'll agree that the results are worth it.. To solve the problem a DDI-1 disc drive can be attached to the rear of the Protex ROM connector. This will enable you to save your labours to a 3" disc.

This month we hope to clear up some of the confusion surrounding the CPC monitors, and the modulators required to view standard television pictures. If you own a CTM640 Monitor, then to receive BBC1 et al., you will need both the MP2 attachment and the MP3. This is because the CTM640 monitor does not have the 12 volt power supply necessary to run the modulator unit. Owners of the CTM644 monitor are the luckiest, needing only an MP3 unit to enjoy the delights of British television. This of course, is because the CTM644 has its own 12 volt power supply unit. Armed with this knowledge, you too can catch up on the goings on in Neighbours between games of Caball!
